CEREMONY TRADITIONS

— Academic Regalia —

The origins of academic dress date back to the earliest days of the oldest colleges. A statute of the University of Coimbra in 1321 required that all “Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors” wear gowns. In England, in the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges forbade “excess in apparel” and prescribed the wearing of a long gown. Long gowns may have been necessary for warmth in unheated buildings. When American colleges and universities desired to adopt a suitable system of academic apparel in 1895, it seemed best to agree on a system which all would follow. Accordingly, a code of academic dress for colleges and universities of the United States was established.

Gowns

The gown for the associate and bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves. The gown for the master’s degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist; the rear part of its oblong shape is square cut, and the front part has an arc cut away. The gown for the doctoral degree has bell-shaped sleeves. Black is the recommended color. Gowns for the bachelor’s or master’s degrees are untrimmed. For the doctoral degree, the gown is faced down the front with black velvet with three bars of the same across the sleeves, or these bars may be of velvet of the color distinctive of the disciplines to which the degree pertains.

Hoods

The hoods vary in length: 48 inches for the doctoral degree, 42 inches for the master’s degree and 36 inches for the bachelor’s degree. All hoods are lined in the silk of the academic color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the colors are shown in divisions using chevrons. The binding or edge of the hood is usually made in velvet in the color designating the subject in which the degree was granted. Regalia for the associate degree does not include a hood.

Honor Cords

Students belonging to academic honor societies or the National Student Nurses’ Association may wear special cords during commencement. Colors correspond to the following organizations:

Lambda Beta	Blue and Green
Lambda Nu	Green and Maroon
National Student Nurses’ Association – Leaders	Purple, Teal and Gold
National Student Nurses’ Association – Members	Purple, Light Blue and Silver
Phi Theta Kappa	Blue and Gold
Sigma Theta Tau	Purple and White
Student Nurses’ Association of Pennsylvania	Blue, White and Gold
Upsilon Phi Delta	Red and Blue

— Banner Colors —

The color of the banner carried at the head of each group of graduates denotes the type of degree conferred. Navy banners indicate associate degree or certificate programs. White banners indicate bachelor's degree programs. Orange banners indicate master's degree programs. The navy and orange banner indicates the doctorate degree program.

— Latin Honors —

Undergraduate students who have earned consistently superior grades in their coursework are recognized for their achievements with the designation of graduation honors. Cum laude honors are awarded for a cumulative grade point average between 3.50 and 3.74; magna cum laude honors for a cumulative grade point average between 3.75 and 3.94; and summa cum laude honors for a cumulative grade point average between 3.95 and 4.00. Graduates receiving Latin honors will have them noted on their diplomas and transcripts.

— About the Keynote Speaker —

John O'Leary channeled a childhood tragedy into a career of service and inspiration for millions of people throughout the world. Now, John brings his story of resilience and perseverance to Pennsylvania College of Health Sciences as our keynote speaker.

Common household items and a boyish curiosity combined in an explosion inside John's home causing burns to 100% of his body. John's story for then on is one of overcoming tragedy, personal strength and turning disadvantage to success. John has always had a story to tell and developed his career from renovating properties, to children's hospital chaplain, to motivational speaker and writer in order to tell that story. John is now an acclaimed speaker to appreciative audiences all over the world and for a large and diverse list of corporate clients.

John has been recognized by dozens of groups for his work with youth and families including Big Brothers Big Sisters, St. Louis University, Vistage International, The Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research, and more.

— Bravura Brass Quintet —

Special thanks to the Bravura Brass Quintet for providing the music for our ceremony.
